Dear Sam:

In regard to your 4 June letter concerning support to the National/Tactical Pilot Study, I agree that the intelligence community would derive greater benefit if both the national and theater data were uniform in computer utilization and applied methodology.

I have instructed my representative, Mr. Russell F. Martin, OX4-5850, from the Directorate for Collection, to contact [redacted] and make the necessary arrangements to include office space for your representative in the event such is needed to accomplish this priority requirement.

Sincerely,

EFT

Dear Gene:

The collection and assimilation of data for the national foreign intelligence assets in support of the national/tactical pilot study has been completed. At present this data resides in the IC Staff's computer system and the theater intelligence assets data resides in the DIA computer system. For the benefit of the entire Community and to assist in the completion of the pilot study, both national and theater data should reside in one computer system.

It is requested that the national data be input in the DIA computer system and run on the COMIS data routines. The national data will be furnished on key punched cards and a member of the National Working Group will perform quality control. Informal liaison with the DIA computer section has been accomplished. National Working Group contact is
